

Brass Clinometer 50 Degrees

Eurosul

The 50 -degree Eurosul brass clinometer is a traditional nautical instrument designed for accurate measurement to include boat tilt up to 50 degrees for each side. With refined polished brass finish, this equipment combines functionality and elegance, being ideal for both operational and decorative use on vessels.

COD EUROSUL: 091401

IMPA: 370241

Part Number: ---

Approvals: ---

Specifications

Features

Case: Polished brass with hinge and latch

Reading scale: 0 to 50° on both sides

Display: Analog with high-precision pointer

Design: Classic with vintage ship print

Mounting: Secure on panels or vertical structures

Applications

Inclination (heel) measurement on vessels

Use in professional nautical and maritime environments

Ideal for leisure boats, sailboats, and medium to large ships

Also used for slope analysis in topographic surveys

Benefits

high resistance to marine corrosion due to brass construction clear and easy-to-read display elegant appearance suited to classic nautical settings contributes to safe navigation

Technical Specifications*Measurement range: -50° to +50°Material: Polished brassApproximate diameter: 140 mmType: Analog with pointerInstallation: Screw-mounted